

PRESS RELEASE

FB Food employees show their sportsmanship in the internal betting game for the European Football Championship 2024

Hüfingen, 15. July 2024 - FB Food, a leading company in the food industry, organized a betting game for the European Football Championship 2024 among its employees. The aim was to strengthen team spirit as employees followed the championship together.

The betting game was very popular among FB Food employees. After exciting weeks of soccer action, the award ceremony took place on July 15. From the first game to the final, the ladies of the staff led the table. In the end, the three best tipsters also won the game.

At FB Food, the sporting motto is: the key is for everyone to take part and have fun. That's why all participants were rewarded with a delicious consolation prize. The stakes for the betting game were purely for fun, no money was bet.

FB Food is delighted with the success of the betting game and would like to thank all employees for their participation and commitment. "We see events like this as an important contribution towards promoting a positive working environment and strengthening the team spirit within our company. After all, our employees are our most valuable asset and a positive working atmosphere is essential for all of us," Nadja Fesenmeyer.
