FB Food passes the halal certification test again

Hüfingen, 10.09.2024 - FB Food GmbH is pleased to announce that the company has successfully passed the Halal certification test. This certification confirms that the products and production processes meet the strict requirements and standards of Halal regulations.

Halal, an Arabic word meaning "permitted" or "permissible", refers to products and services that comply with Islamic law. Halal certification guarantees that the products have been manufactured in compliance with religious and hygiene regulations and are therefore suitable for Muslim consumers.

The demand for halal products is growing worldwide, not only in Muslim countries, but also in regions such as Europe, North America and Asia. Halal certification enables FB Food to meet the requirements of these markets and expand its global business activities.

"We are proud to be granted Halal certification once again. This achievement reflects our commitment to the highest quality and safety standards," says Nadja Fesenmeyer. "The certification not only allows us to strengthen our position in the domestic market, but also to remain competitive in international markets that prefer halal products."
